A Penn Dance and Penn Glee Club
Collab 15 Years in the Making

Alcohol Free Event

Presidents' Welcome

To Our Audience,

We are excited to welcome you to the Penn Glee Club and Penn Dance Company's Love Story.

How did we meet, exactly? Back in 2002, there were an increasing number of on-campus performing arts groups and limited theater space, so the Performing Arts Council asked us to team up for our fall show. Perhaps a seemingly unlikely pair at the start, but since that first collaboration in 2002, the Penn Glee Club and Penn Dance Company have come together each fall to create a collaborative performance filled with singing, dancing, and the talents of two of the oldest performing arts groups on campus. This production marks our fifteenth season performing together and stands as proof of our ever strengthening relationship and artistic growth. Hard to believe, but legend has it that PD and Glee didn't always love each other so much, and we're tickled that this collaboration has gone from something to be endured to something so treasured.

Onstage and off, we have laughed, cried, argued, compromised, rehearsed, serenaded and celebrated, and we continue to challenge and inspire one another to create outstanding work in the true spirit of collaboration. Like any great love, we bring out the best in each other, and couldn't be more proud of this beautiful thing we've created together, far greater than the sum of its parts.

About Penn Dance

Penn Dance Company was founded in 1975 as the University of Pennsylvania's premiere modern dance group. We are co-ed, student-governed and funded by SAC. We are also a member of DAC and PAC. Penn Dance is the only dance company on campus with a professional Artistic Director, Rachel Kantra Beal, and Artistic Director Emeritus, Nancy Berman Kantra. Since its inception, Penn Dance has flourished as one of the University's most innovative and expressive dance companies. Primarily a modern dance ensemble, Penn Dance has long been influenced by the diverse training of its company members, who have come from backgrounds in ballet, modern, jazz, tap, hip-hop, and Classical Indian dance, among others. While we maintain a cohesive company aesthetic through weekly technique classes, encouraging individual expression and creative exploration is central to the spirit of Penn Dance. Our productions are primarily student-choreographed, and company members have an opportunity to develop their skills as dance-makers as well as performing artists. Dancers also take part in costuming, technical production and promotion of each performance. In addition to our fall collaborative show, we present a full-length dance concert each spring, which includes work by alumni, professional guest choreographers and the Artistic Director. Throughout our history, we have maintained a close community that fosters life-long friendships and provides a supportive environment for personal, professional and artistic growth.

About the Directors

Rachel Kantra Beal (Penn Dance Artistic Director):

A choreographer and teaching artist, Rachel Kantra Beal has been working with Penn Dance since 2004 and continues to guide Penn Dancers in her sixth season as Artistic Director. Rachel has taught throughout the Philadelphia area and is currently on faculty at the University of the Arts, Temple University and Koresh School of Dance. From 2006-2013, Rachel was a member of Philadelphia-based modern dance company Dancefusion, where she performed the works of Mary Anthony, Pauline Koner, Anna Solokow and José Limón, among others. Rachel is faculty choreographer for fusion2, a training company for young dancers, where she served as director from 2008-2014. Rachel has also worked with Enchantment Theater Company, creating live theater for children and their families. She has studied at the Central Pennsylvania Youth Ballet, Koresh School of Dance, Trinity Laban Conservatoire of Music and Dance in London, and holds a BFA from the University of the Arts. Rachel's studies have taken her as far as Tel Aviv, where she developed English language curricula and taught Israeli school children. Rachel lives in West Philly with her husband Andrew, their daughter, Rory, and two cats, Simi and Rumi.

Nancy Berman Kantra CMA, MFA (Penn Dance Artistic Director Emeritus):

Professor Nancy Kantra is Educator of Dance and Movement in the Ira Brind School of Theater Arts at the University of the Arts where she teaches artists of all majors and has choreographed over thirty-five musicals. Outside of UArts, Ms. Kantra is on faculty at Rutgers University, Camden and faculty choreographer for the Gwendolyn Bye Dance Center and fusion2 Dance Company. Ms Kantra serves as peer reviewer for the NJ Council On the Arts and educational consultant, teacher, and choreographer for many local universities, studios and arts institutions. Nancy is a Certified Movement Analyst and is associated with the Laban Institute of Movement Studies, the Actors Movement Studio of New York and the Conseil International de la Danse.

About Penn Glee Club

As the University of Pennsylvania Glee Club thrives in the 21st century, it remains an institution atop the world of fine male choral singing. Featuring a unique blend of musical excellence and theatrical showmanship, the Penn Glee Club has won worldwide acclaim. In Joshua Glassman's second year of leadership as the Club's director, the Penn Glee Club continues to delight audiences of all ages. Its world-renowned tradition and rich history began modestly in 1862, when eight undergraduate men formed the Club, making the Penn Glee Club the oldest performing arts group at the University of Pennsylvania, as well as one of the oldest collegiate all-male glee clubs in the nation. From these humble beginnings, the Penn Glee Club has reached audiences around the world, touring internationally since 1959 and traveling to nearly all 50 states in the United States and over 40 nations and territories on five continents. The modern Club is a reflection of its rich heritage and contemporary character. The Penn Glee Club is like no other glee club in the nation, boasting a talented band, accompanist section, and technical staff, as well as performing original theatrical shows. Now in its 155th season, the University of Pennsylvania Glee Club remains, as former Pennsylvania Governor Milton Shapp once remarked, "one of the finest musical organizations in existence." It proudly represents the University in its grand tradition and is equally proud to preserve its unique blend of choral excellence and theatrical showmanship.

About the Director

Joshua Glassman (Penn Glee Club Director):

Ann Arbor, Michigan native Joshua Glassman has appeared both on stage and on the podium. As a singer, his multifaceted performances include opera, art song, choral music, musical theatre, and cabaret. As a conductor and educator, Joshua's main mission is to bring a love of vocal music to new audiences and tomorrow's performers.

On the podium, Mr. Glassman seeks to preserve the American choral tradition. In June of 2015, he led the Mt. Vernon Consort in an evening featuring the premiere of Peter Dayton's Light and Mystery: Suite from an American Mass, which was nominated for the American Prize in choral composition. Flanking the work were folk hymns, spirituals, and settings of Latin texts by Samuel Barber and R. Nathaniel Dett. For three summers, he headed the choir program at Point Counterpoint Camp in Vermont, leading string players between the ages of eight and eighteen in a chorus designed to promote aural skills.

Though he is a tenor deeply rooted in established styles, Joshua has premiered many new works including the role of Dean Clarkson in the widely acclaimed opera by Frances Pollock, Stinney. He also enacted the role of Henry Crawford in the American premiere of Jonathan Dove's Mansfield Park. Other notable stage credits include Lensky in Eugene Onegin and Lysander in A Midsummer Night's Dream.

As a soloist, Joshua performs a wide array of genres ranging from art song to oratorio. Prominent recital appearances include the Embassy Series in Washington, D.C. and a performance in April, where he premiered a cycle of Yiddish folk songs by Baltimore-based composer, Joshua Bornfield. Notable oratorio credits include Bach's "Magnificat," Schubert's "Mass in G," Rossini's "Petite Messe Solennelle," Handel's "Dixit Dominus," and Haydn's "Harmoniemesse."

Mr. Glassman holds degrees from the University of Michigan (BM '12) and the Peabody Institute of the Johns Hopkins University (MM '15).

Fifteen Years Of

In 2002, the Performing Arts Council asked each group to collaborate for one of its two shows to alleviate a shortage of performance spaces. The Penn Glee Club, the University's oldest performing arts group, and Penn Dance Company, the University's first performing dance group, were a natural match because of their reputation for excellence in their respective crafts. The collaboration took off with the Fall 2002 Production, "Penn Dances with Glee" in Irvine Auditorium.

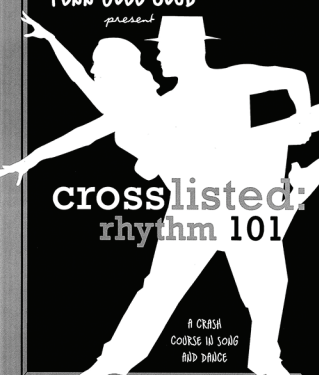

Right: The show opener from "Espresspionage: A Latte of Trouble" in 2013. Far Right: An on-stage group hug in "Rock Hard Café" in 2010. Below: Selected Show Programs and Posters.
